The 2019 local SADD Youth Conference was hosted at the Forbes Road Conference Center in Breezewood, PA. Students from Tussey Mountain, Northern Bedford, Chestnut Ridge, and Bedford school districts attended – about 100 students total.

The main activity this year was the breakout boxes. Students worked together and had to use critical thinking to “break into” locked boxes. They had to solve challenging puzzles and follow directions carefully to succeed. The activity required students to use “the four C’s”- critical thinking, creativity, collaboration, and communication. Aside from the breakout activity, there were two guest speakers- Sharon McNamara from Your Safe Haven spoke to the students about the dangers of social media, and Justyn Patton from Twin Lakes Center in Somerset talked about his own experience going through addiction and recovery, and how he is helping others going through addiction. BCDAPP acts as a liaison for the SADD chapters in the county and is proud to help plan the SADD activities for the students each year.
